July 28, 2019

WASHINGTON — President Trump announced on Sunday that Dan Coats will step down as the director of national intelligence after a tenure in which the two were often at odds over Russia, North Korea and the president's own attacks on the intelligence community.

"I am pleased to announce that highly respected Congressman John Ratcliffe of Texas will be nominated by me to be the Director of National Intelligence," Mr. Trump tweeted. "A former U.S. Attorney, John will lead and inspire greatness for the Country he loves. Dan Coats, the current Director, will be leaving office on August 15th. I would like to thank Dan for his great service to our Country. The Acting Director will be named shortly."

Mr. Ratcliffe has been a staunch defender of Mr. Trump. As a member of the House Judiciary Committee, he sharply questioned Robert S. Mueller III, the former special counsel, at last week's hearing.

Mr. Coats had long been expected to depart of his own accord, an administration official said, but he ended up staying on longer so it would not seem as if he was forced out during a time of conflict with Mr. Trump. In a meeting last week, Mr. Coats told Mr. Trump and Vice President Mike Pence that he was ready to move on.

Mr. Coats, who helped devise President George W. Bush's compassionate conservative agenda, had been an important link between the Trump administration and the Republican establishment. With Mr. Coats gone, those ties, at least on national security matters, are likely to weaken.

But Mr. Trump's grip on the Republican Party has only strengthened, and he has long since demonstrated that members of

The Honorable Brian E. Frosh
Maryland Attorney General
200 St. Paul Place
Baltimore, MD 21202

Dear Attorney General Frosh,

I respectfully request that the Maryland Attorney General's Office investigate potential abuse and misuse of a Maryland nonprofit through its coordination with a Maryland corporation. The nonprofit Center for Global Policy Solutions ("Center"), through the for-profit Global Policy Solutions, LLC ("GPS"), appears to provide an improper financial benefit to Ms. Maya Rockeymore Cummings and her husband, Representative Elijah Cummings. As part of your mission to protect citizens donations to legitimate nonprofit organizations, this situation requires oversight and investigation to ensure that these entities are operating in accordance with the law.

The Center is a nonprofit organization with its most recent Form 990 filed for 2017. In the 2017 filing, the address for the nonprofit is listed as 2221 St Paul Street, Baltimore MD 21218.¹ The principal officer is listed as Ms. Rockeymore Cummings.²

GPS is registered with the state of Maryland. Its principal place of business is located at 2221 Saint Paul St. Suite 1, Baltimore, MD 21218. The resident agent for the entity is Ms. Maya Rockeymore Cummings, located at the same address.³ Additionally, Representative Cummings disclosed with the U.S. House of Representatives a financial interest in GPS, stating that Ms. Rockeymore Cummings owns 100 percent of GPS, a for-profit company.⁴

The Center and GPS bear a strikingly close resemblance. Ms. Rockeymore Cummings serves as the principal officer and is the sole staff member listed on the Center's website.⁵ Ms. Rockeymore Cummings is also the sole owner and only staff member listed for GPS.⁶ The entities share the same phone number and the same address.⁷

Home » Resources » Justice Manual » Criminal Resource Manual » CRM 2000 - 2500 » Criminal Resource Manual 2000-2099

2054. SYNOPSIS OF CLASSIFIED INFORMATION PROCEDURES ACT (CIPA)

I. DEFINITIONS, PRETRIAL CONFERENCE, PROTECTIVE ORDERS AND DISCOVERY

After a criminal indictment becomes public, the prosecutor remains responsible for taking reasonable precautions against the unauthorized disclosure of classified information during the case. This responsibility applies both when the government intends to use classified information in its case-in-chief as well as when the defendant seeks to use classified information in his/her defense. The fact with which the proper protection of classified information may be ensured in inderted cases is the Classified Information Procedures Act (CIPA). See Title 18, U.S.C. App III.

CIPA is a procedural statute; it neither adds to nor detracts from the substantive rights of the defendant or the discovery obligations of the government. Rather, the procedure for making these determinations is different in that it balances the right of a criminal defendant with the right of the sovereign to know in advance of a potential threat from a criminal prosecution to its national security. See, e.g., United States v. Anderson, 872 F.2d 1268, 1274 (11th Cir.), cert. denied, 493 U.S. 1004 (1989); United States v. Collins, 720 F.2d 1095, 1097 (11th Cir. 1983); United States v. Lopez-Lopez, 738 F. Supp. 1404, 1407 (S.D. Fla. 1990). Each of CIPA's provisions is designed to achieve those dual goals: preventing unnecessary or inadvertent disclosures of classified information and advising the government of the national security "cost" of going forward.

A. Definitions of Terms Section 1 of CIPA defines "classified information" and "national security," both of which are terms used throughout the statute. Subsection (a), in pertinent part, defines "classified information" as:

1. Any information or material that has been determined by the United States Government pursuant to an Executive order, statute, or regulation, to require protection against unauthorized disclosure for reasons of national security.

Subsection (b) defines "national security" to mean the "national defense and foreign relations of the United States."

B. Pretrial Conference

Section 2 provides that "[a]t any time after the filing of the indictment or information, any party may move for a pretrial conference to consider matters relating to classified information that may arise in connection with the prosecution." Following such a motion, the district court "shall promptly hold a pretrial conference to establish the timing of requests for discovery, the provision of notice required by Section 1 of this Act, and the initiation of the procedure established by Section 6 (to determine the use, relevance, or admissibility of classified information) of this Act."

C. Protective Orders

50 Q's mention tonight of Debbie Wasserman Schultz, Imran Awan and the House Dems who hired him seems to be a hint that their days are numbered.

5 Years After Haiti's Earthquake, Where Did The $13.5 Billion Go?

Governments and nonprofits have insisted on keeping control of their projects in Haiti. So projects have cost several times more than they should. And Haiti is a long way from "building back better."

<https://www.npr.org/sections/goatsandsoda/2015/01/12/376138864/5-years-after-haiti-...>

But that's not the way foreign aid to Haiti works. With few exceptions, donor nations and nongovernmental organizations insist on keeping control of their projects, which are set according to their own priorities.

Jake Johnston of the Washington-based Center for Economic Policy and Research cites post-earthquake aid from the USAID, as an example.

"USAID has spent about $1.5 billion since the earthquake," Johnston told Goats & Soda. "Less than a penny of every dollar goes directly to a Haitian organization."

A growing reliance on U.S. and other international contractors helps explain why the payoff of foreign aid in Haiti often seems so low. For instance, it cost more than $33,000 to build a new housing unit in one post-earthquake program, a report from the U.S. Government Accountability Office said last year. That's five times more than one nonprofit, called Mission of Hope, spends per house, using local contractors.

Members of a family look out from tarp that serves as the front door to home. The structure was built five years over the land where their home stood after the 2010 earthquake. At one point, million people lived in tents across Haiti. About 80,000 people live in these tents today.

66) On August 28, 2018, POTUS tweeted about Hillary Clinton's emails being "hacked" by China and said the FBI & DOJ's credibility would forever be destroyed if they didn't properly investigate.

67) Q said DOJ & FBI knew Hillary's emails had been obtained by foreign governments. Access was granted in exchange for donations to the Clinton Foundation. If it were made public, it would discredit other investigations & open the door to inquiries about Anthony Weiner's laptop.

68) Obama and his intelligence community knew about Hillary's server. But they couldn't take action against her without implicating themselves. As soon as Hillary emailed them, they became guilty.
