Election News:

A lawsuit in the state of Michigan was dismissed by a judge because it sought to stop the counting of ballots which had already been counted.

The campaign filed a suit shortly after Election Day seeking to stop the counting of mail-in votes. However, Michigan Court of Appeals Judge Cynthia Stevens rejected the suit, ruling that the demands of the campaign can't be met by Benson since the process of counting ballots was nearly completed.

Other Trump campaign lawsuits are still pending.

The Trump campaign has filed multiple lawsuits in the state, with the most recent suit also seeking to block Benson from certifying the results on the grounds that the state ran an unconstitutional election. The suit also seeks to give campaign officials the opportunity to review counted ballots in Wayne County.

In addition to lawsuits by the campaign, legislators have called for an audit.

Did @GaSecofState mislead the world when he said he was ordering an audit and a re-canvass? A re-canvass requires review of absentee ballot applications & absentee ballot signatures, but apparently counties in Georgia are intending on hiding that from observers?

I personally believe there are multiple paths to victory:

- 1) Win the voter count outright.
- 2) Recount/Audit the vote
- 3) Litigate to remove fraudulently cast ballots
- 4) Expose corruption in the Dominion voting system
- 5) Pressure electors to do the right thing in light of obvious fraud
- 6) Expose any potential role played by foreign nations like China (NATSEC)

More coming?

Why is this relevant?

How do you 'show' the public the truth?

How do you 'safeguard' US elections post-POTUS?

How do you 'remove' foreign interference and corruption and install US-owned voter ID law(s) and other safeguards?

It had to be this way.

Sometimes you must walk through the darkness before you see the light.

BRYAN S. WARE

Bryan S. Ware serves as the Assistant Director for Cybersecurity for the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA). In this role, Ware leads CISA's mission of protecting and strengthening the nation's critical infrastructure against cyber threats.

Previously, Ware served as the DHS Assistant Secretary for Cyber, Infrastructure, and Resilience Policy. In this role, Ware was responsible for leading DHS policy development in support of department-wide efforts to reduce national risks with a focus on critical infrastructure cybersecurity, federal network security, countering cyber-crime, and improving the security and resilience of the global cyber ecosystem, as well as national resilience initiatives that enhance Federal, State and local government and community preparedness and response capabilities.

Ware is an entrepreneur, founding an artificial intelligence company in 1998 which he led as CEO through multiple rounds of Venture Capital investment until it was acquired in 2013 by Haystack. After serving as CTO of Haystack for several years during which he helped the company acquire leading cloud technology and cybersecurity companies, Ware took over as CEO of Haystack in 2016 until its acquisition in 2018. Ware started his professional career at leading Defense contractors working on advanced technology programs like the Star Wars program, early UAV payloads, and counterterrorism technologies.

Ware has been issued multiple patents in artificial intelligence and mobile technology. He holds a degree in Applied Optics from Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology.

Yesterday, we looked at a statement attributed to the Department of Homeland Security.

Joint Statement from Elections Infrastructure Government Coordinating Council & the Election Infrastructure Sector Coordinating Executive Committees

November 12, 2020

"The November 3rd election was the most secure in American history. Right now, across the country, election officials are reviewing and double checking the entire election process prior to finalizing the result.

"When states have close elections, many will recount ballots. All of the states with close results in the 2020 presidential race have paper records of each vote, allowing the ability to go back and count each ballot if necessary. This is an added benefit for security and resilience. This process allows for the identification and correction of any mistakes or errors. There is no evidence that any voting system deleted or lost votes, changed votes, or was in any way compromised.

"Other security measures like pre-election testing, state certification of voting equipment, and the U.S. Election Assistance Commission's (EAC) certification of voting equipment help to build additional confidence in the voting systems used in 2020.

"While we know there are many unfounded claims and opportunities for misinformation about the process of our elections, we can assure you we have the utmost confidence in the security and integrity of our elections, and you should too. When you have questions, turn to elections officials as trusted voices as they administer elections."

WASHINGTON/SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) - Top U.S. cybersecurity official Christopher Krebs, who worked on protecting the election from hackers but drew the ire of the Trump White House over efforts to debunk disinformation, has told associates he expects to be fired, three sources familiar with the matter told Reuters.

From the New York Post article:

Department of Homeland Security acting Secretary Chad Wolf is defying President Trump's order to terminate election cybersecurity official Christopher Krebs, multiple sources tell The Post.

The White House on Wednesday evening instructed Wolf to fire Krebs after Krebs openly dismissed claims of voter fraud in the Nov. 3 election.

"He gave us a bunch of reasons why he didn't want to do it and he said no," a senior White House official told The Post about Wolf's refusal.

"If anything, Chad is carrying Krebs' water," the source added.

Krebs, a former Microsoft executive, has since 2017 led DHS's Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) and recently launched a "Rumor Control" website to debunk claims of voter fraud. A CISA panel declared Thursday that the "November 3rd election was the most secure in American history," rejecting Trump's claims of widespread fraud.

A different administration official said "the president wants to fire him" and "Chad Wolf is refusing."

The New York Post article confirms that this official-looking website <http://CISA.gov> was launched by Krebs to tamp down rumors about voter fraud.

Hours before President Trump's legal team held a presser on November 5th, the mainstream called Wisconsin and Michigan for Joe Biden and projected him as the winner.

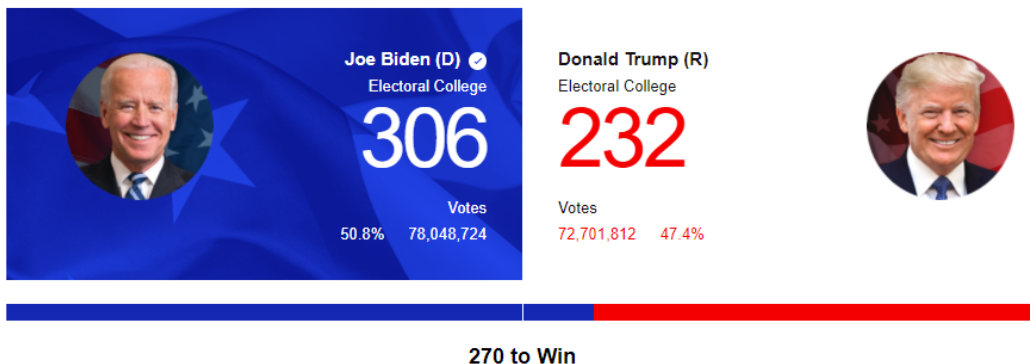

CBS News projects Joe Biden is the winner in Wisconsin and Michigan, capturing 26 electoral votes and inching closer to the 270 he needs to capture the White House and deny President Trump a second term.

Biden's victory in two states that were key parts of Mr. Trump's coalition in 2016 significantly limits the president's pathways to reelection, with just four states still considered toss-ups in CBS News' estimates. Biden currently holds a lead of 20,510 votes in Wisconsin with nearly all votes counted, and a lead of roughly 61,000 votes in Michigan.

Even before news organizations began projecting Biden to win Wisconsin Wednesday afternoon, Bill Stepien, the president's campaign manager, said the campaign would "immediately" seek a recount, which is permitted in Wisconsin when the margin of victory is less than 1 percentage point. Biden's lead in the state stands at about 0.6 percentage points.

What should be obvious by the timing of these calls is that the media want to be able to demand that President Trump concede the election. Their demands are purely an attempt to control the public narrative.

Predictably, after the President concluded his covid presser this afternoon, the media shouted questions and demanded that he concede the election. The Trump turned and walked away.
