5) Jeff @themarketwork posted his own thread on the Page transcripts.

6) It seems Former CIA head John Brennan had the Steel dossier in August of 2016 & used it to force an investigation of Donald Trump via Harry Reid. A question to Page showed that Brennan & Comey seemed to know about the dossier but Page denied knowing if Brennan had a copy of it

Brennan's role was highlighted again during testimony, as one Representative questioning Page questioned her in relation to an Aug. 25, 2016, text message: "What are you doing after the CH brief?" CH almost certainly referred to "Crossfire Hurricane."

Page was asked specifically about an event that occurred on the same day:

"It's the same day that Director Brennan is briefing Harry Reid, is why I ask. And so what you're saying is you were unaware that Director Brennan was briefing Harry Reid that same day?"

Page said she was unaware of Brennan's briefing to Reid. She was then asked the following:

"You give a brief on August the 25th. Director Brennan is giving a brief. It's not a Gang of Eight brief. It is a one-on-one, from what we can tell, a one-on-one briefing with Harry Reid at that point. And it becomes apparent, based on your text messages and based on Director Comey's emails, that you all are aware that that conversation took place. Were you aware that Director Brennan had a briefing with Harry Reid and that you expected a letter from Harry Reid?"

Page noted that she remembered the letter sent by Reid, but seemed confused as to Brennan's involvement and possible knowledge of the Steele dossier. Worth noting is that while some within the FBI likely had parts of the dossier in July, the Counterintelligence investigative team did not receive it until mid-September during a trip to Rome where they met personally with Steele.

The Representative, who was clearly aware of the disparity in timing, focused on precisely how Brennan might have been aware of the dossier in

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/DwptsKHU8AAp0C.jpg>

7) Page reiterated that as of August 2016, she had no knowledge whatsoever as to the CIA's involvement with the Steele dossier.

Since Brennan had the dossier before Page had knowledge of it, the Rep suggested Spygate may have been a CIA operation from the start.

Page: As of August of 2016, I don't know who Christopher Steele is. I don't know that he's an FBI source. I don't know what he does. I have never heard of him in all of my life. So let me just sort of be clear. When the FBI first receives the reports that are known as the dossier from an FBI agent who is Christopher Steele's handler in September of 2016 at that time, we do not know who—we don't know why these reports have been generated. We don't know for what purpose.

A bit later in the discussion, the representative asked another question:

"So you don't know whether it's a coordinated effort to get you those documents or not at that point in September?"

Page responds, "Coordinated by whom, sir?"

Rep.: Anybody, other than a confidential human source saying, "Listen, I've got reason to be concerned and bring it to you." It could be coordinated by the CIA. It could have been coordinated by Fusion GPS. You don't know.

Page: At the time that we received the documentation, no. What we have is the preexisting relationship with the source and the reliability of his prior reporting.

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/Dwqwmk8U0Af-FI.jpg>

8) I have a lot more to share from the report but I want to make a point here.

By reading Page and Strzok's texts and by interviewing them, members of Congress know a lot about the origin of Spygate that is not public knowledge.

9) Someone in Congress wants us to know some of what they know.

To accomplish that objective, they leaked this transcript.

Why did a white hat in Congress (or the Intelligence community) leak this transcript to Jeff Carlson?

12) I believe Carlson was given the transcript because POTUS and his white hats knew he would use it to advance the narrative they need us to understand—that the crimes of Obama's cabinet and staff are known and that they will be prosecuted.

13) Page was questioned as to what she knew about CIA Director Brennan's briefing to the White House on the FBI's investigation "Crossfire Hurricane".

Page denied having any knowledge of Brennan's briefing and said she would be shocked to learn it had happened.

The congressional representative then asked the following question:

"What you're saying is when the Director briefed the White House 2 days prior to that, on August the 8th, or prepared for it, actually briefed him on the 10th, that it had nothing to do with any campaign. Even though George Toscas and Stu Evans knew about it."

Normally, when a member of the FBI uses the word "Director" they would be referring to the FBI Director. In this case, while not made absolutely clear in the transcript, it appears "Director" refers to CIA Director John Brennan, who had been discussed in the preceding comments relating to Brennan's briefing of Reid.

From Brennan's congressional testimony, we know that he had briefed the White House at some point in early August 2016, prior to Aug. 11:

"In consultation with the White House, I personally briefed the full details of our understanding of Russian attempts to interfere in election to congressional leadership, specifically Senators Harry Reid, Mitch McConnell, Dianne Feinstein and Richard Burr; and to Representatives Paul Ryan, Nancy Pelosi, Devon Nunes and Adam Schiff between 11, August and 6, September."

Page responded to the question: "Sir, I would be shocked. I would truly be stunned to discover that the Director had briefed the President on the substance of our investigation or even the existence of our investigation. I would be—I can't say it didn't happen, I wasn't there, but I would be stunned to discover that."

Steele's FBI Handler

Page had earlier referenced Steele's handler:

"When the FBI first receives the reports that are known as the dossier from an FBI agent who is Christopher Steele's handler in September of 2016 at that time, we do not know who—we don't know why these reports have been generated."

Steele's handler is almost certainly Michael Gaeta, head of the FBI's Eurasian Crime Squad. Gaeta, an FBI agent and also assistant legal attaché at the U.S. Embassy in Rome, has known the former MI6 spy since at least 2010, when Steele provided assistance in the FBI's investigation into the FIFA corruption scandal over concern that Russia might have been engaging in bribery to host the 2018 World Cup.

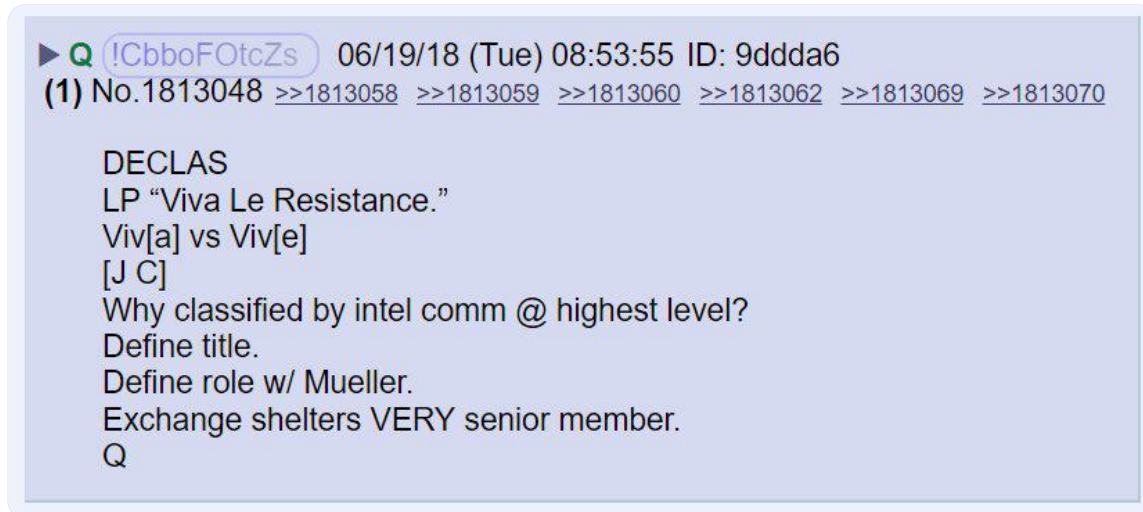

On July 5, 2016, Gaeta traveled to London and met with Steele at the offices of Steele's firm, Orbis. For this visit, the FBI sought permission from the office of Victoria Nuland, the assistant secretary of state for European and Eurasian affairs. Nuland, who had been the recipient of many of Steele's reports, gave permission for the more formal meeting.

17) Former DOJ National Security Director John P Carlin's role is unknown.

Q suggested someone with 3 initials (the first and last being J and C) was being protected.

We decoded the name as John P Carlin.

A Lisa Page [LP] text alluded to that person saying "Viva Le Resistance."

https://pbs.twimg.com/media/Dwq-mAZXgAAP_Dg.jpg

18) Lisa Page said John Carlin was being kept up to date on the FBI's "Crossfire Hurricane" investigation via former FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe (sometimes directly and sometimes via George Toscas).

John Carlin's Role

John Carlin was an assistant attorney general and head of the DOJ's National Security Division (NSD). He had previously served as chief of staff to then-FBI Director Robert Mueller.

Carlin announced his resignation the day after he filed the Government's proposed 2016 Section 702 certifications. This filing would be subject to intense criticism from the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court (FISC) following disclosures made by NSA Director Mike Rogers. Significant changes to the handling of raw FISA data would result.

Carlin was replaced with Mary McCord—who would later accompany Acting AG Sally Yates to see White House Counsel Don McGahn regarding Trump's National Security Adviser General Michael Flynn.

Page was asked at several points regarding influence from political appointees. At one point in the discussion, she singled out Carlin—and what she had to say proved interesting:

"I do know that at least John Carlin, for example, who is a political appointee was kept abreast of the sort of investigative activity that was going on. And the only reason I know this is because when there was conflicts between us and DOJ, John might call over to—John Carlin might call over to Andy McCabe, and sort of make his team's pitch, and then Andy would, you know, sort of the back and forth would go on. So it is clear that John had, was getting some sort of briefing, but he was not, it was, it never occurred by the FBI, which is, in my view, atypical."

In response to a question asking who was McCabe's direct counterpart at the DOJ on the investigation, Page responded, "it would have been John. It was either John Carlin or George Toscas who would have, who would have reached out to Mr. McCabe."

The Congressional staffer who was doing this particular line of questioning appeared to attempt to mitigate the information just revealed by Page:

"Numerous witnesses have confirmed to us that George Toscas, a career prosecutor, was in charge of the day-to-day operation of DOJ on this investigation. And that Carlin and other political folks above him had briefings certainly, so they had knowledge but didn't have input in the investigation."

"Do you have any personal knowledge of John Carlin, Loretta Lynch, Sally Yates, or other political appointees at the DOJ issuing orders on how to conduct the Midyear investigation?" Page was asked.

Page answered that she had "no personal knowledge of that." Despite the attempts to shift the conversation, these admissions are notable.

Carlin was a very senior official within the DOJ. He was also Toscas's boss. It was Toscas who was contacted by New York prosecutors (possibly Preet Bharara) involved in the Anthony Weiner investigation regarding the Clinton emails found on Weiner's computer. In response, Toscas contacted McCabe, his counterpart at the FBI, ultimately forcing McCabe to inform Comey of the existence of Clinton emails on Weiner's laptop.

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/DwqBg6lWwAEmlAc.jpg>

19) Confirming Q's assertion that John Carlin was being protected, the transcript shows a Congressional staffer attempting to downplay Carlin's involvement, pointing out that it was actually George Toscas who ran things on the DOJ side and not Carlin.

In response to a question asking who was McCabe's direct counterpart at the DOJ on the investigation, Page responded, "it would have been John. It was either John Carlin or George Toscas who would have, who would have reached out to Mr. McCabe."

The Congressional staffer who was doing this particular line of questioning appeared to attempt to mitigate the information just revealed by Page:

"Numerous witnesses have confirmed to us that George Toscas, a career prosecutor, was in charge of the day-to-day operation of DOJ on this investigation. And that Carlin and other political folks above him had briefings certainly, so they had knowledge but didn't have input in the investigation."

"Do you have any personal knowledge of John Carlin, Loretta Lynch, Sally Yates, or other political appointees at the DOJ issuing orders on how to conduct the Midyear investigation?" Page was asked.

20) Despite the recent assessment by FBI Director Chris Wray that China presents the most serious threat to the US, Lisa Page said she felt that Russia was the real threat.

Page's Russia Bias

Perhaps unsurprisingly, Page expressed strong feelings regarding Russia, noting, "I do always hate the Russians," and she singled out the nation as a national security threat far exceeding that of China or North Korea:

"Russia poses the greatest threat certainly to Western ideals of any of our foreign adversaries. And we have vast foreign adversaries. But even the threats that are posed by China or by Iran or North Korea or others doesn't speak to sort of the core of Western democracy, right?"

"It is my opinion that with respect to Western ideals and who it is and what it is we stand for as Americans, Russia poses the most dangerous threat to that way of life."

Page appeared to be singularly focused on Russia making only one reference to China throughout the entire interview.

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/DwqZBRKUUAECp2n.jpg>

21) Mike Kortan was FBI Assistant Director of Public Affairs. His role in Spygate has been unknown (at least to the public).

Page testified that both Kortan and McCabe authorized FBI leaks to the press.

Kortan's Role in Page's Leaks to the Media

Page said in her testimony that she “was authorized by Deputy Director McCabe and by Mike Kortan to engage with the reporter [Devlin Barrett] on this topic.” This refers to a leak by Page to Barrett, who worked at the Wall Street Journal, regarding the FBI's investigation into the Clinton Foundation.

Interestingly, Page highlighted the role of Kortan as assistant director of Public Affairs Office at the FBI. Kortan is mentioned nowhere in the IG's report specific to McCabe, although he is mentioned in the IG's June report. Kortan, who has since retired, was in place during a lengthy sequence of unauthorized disclosures highlighted by the IG's report—and as Page testifies, had full knowledge of her leaks on behalf of McCabe:

“I agree with you that it is curious that there is no reference in the IG report at all to Mr. Kortan, particularly in light of what I reported, which is that both interactions with the reporter were done with Mr. Kortan, in coordination with Mr. Kortan and with Mr. Kortan at my side. So I cannot explain why there is no—there is no reference to Mr. Kortan in any testimony, if he did give any, in the IG report.”

Kortan's involvement in Page's authorized leaks to Barrett had not been previously known.

22) An email from Peter Strzok discussed a FISA application referred to by the code name: "Dragon."

Page said she could not discuss it in an unclassified setting.

This discussion quickly led into another area—an Oct. 18, 2016, email from Strzok containing the subject line “Re: Dragon FISA.”

Page quickly noted that she could not discuss the matter in an unclassified setting—but would be able to discuss the matter with congressional investigators in a classified setting.

The Dragon FISA was referenced in an article by John Solomon in The Hill:

“In one email exchange with the subject line “Crossfire FISA,” Strzok and Lisa Page discussed talking points to get then-FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe to persuade a high-ranking DOJ official to sign off on the warrant.

“Crossfire Hurricane” was one of the code names for four separate investigations the FBI conducted related to Russia matters in the 2016 election.

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/DwqfKq-U8AAfZmE.jpg>

23) According to this article by John Solomon, the "Dragon FISA" seems to be a surveillance request that was part of another investigation (codenamed Dragon) that was related to Trump and Russia.

In one email exchange with the subject line "Crossfire FISA," Strzok and Lisa Page discussed talking points to get then-FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe to persuade a high-ranking DOJ official to sign off on the warrant.

"Crossfire Hurricane" was one of the code names for four separate investigations the FBI conducted related to Russia matters in the 2016 election.

"At a minimum, that keeps the hurry the F up pressure on him," Strzok emailed Page on Oct. 14, 2016, less than four weeks before Election Day.

Four days later the same team was emailing about rushing to get approval for another FISA warrant for another Russia-related investigation code-named "Dragon."

"Still an expedite?" one of the emails beckoned, as the FBI tried to meet the requirements of a process known as a Woods review before a FISA warrant can be approved by the courts.

"Any idea what time he can have it woods-ed by?" Strzok asked Page. "I know it's not going to matter because DOJ is going to take the time DOJ wants to take. I just don't want this waiting on us at all."

25) Lisa Page's testimony seems to bear that out. She said the DOJ made all the decisions as to how the FBI's "Crossfire Hurricane" investigation would be handled.

Did the DOJ really run the operation or is Page throwing the DOJ under the bus to save her FBI friends?

Disagreements Between the FBI and DOJ

As Page noted during her testimony, “there were lots and lots and lots of disagreements between the FBI and the Department.” One issue of ongoing contention was Clinton’s actual email server:

“There was a great deal of discussion between the FBI and the Department with respect to whether to proceed, obtain the server which housed the bulk of Secretary Clinton’s emails, pursuant to consent or pursuant to a subpoena or other compulsory process.”

Additionally, access to the laptops of Clinton’s aides and personal lawyers was an area of particular contention:

“There were, I think, months of disagreement with respect to obtaining the Mills and Samuelson laptops. So Heather Mills and—Cheryl Mills and Heather Samuelson were both lawyers who engaged in the sorting. Once it had been identified that Secretary Clinton had these emails—I’m guessing it’s pursuant to the FOIA request, but I don’t really know—she—well, our understanding is that she asked her two lawyers to take the bulk of the 60,000 emails and to sort out those which were work-related from those which were personal and to produce the work-related ones to the State Department.

“They did so. That 30,000 is sort of the bulk of the emails that we relied on in order to do the investigative technique, although we found other emails a jillion other places. We, the FBI, felt very strongly that we had to acquire and attempt to review the content of the Mills and Samuelson laptops because, to the extent the other 30,000 existed anywhere, that is the best place that they may have existed.”

“And notwithstanding the fact that they had been deleted, you know, we wanted at least to take a shot at using, you know, forensic recovery tools in order to try to ensure that, in fact, the sorting that occurred between—or by Mills and Samuelson was done correctly.”

According to Page, the ongoing dispute with the DOJ ran from “February/March-ish of 2016” to June of 2016. Page also noted one other critical factor in the investigation: “the FBI cannot execute a search warrant without approval from the Justice Department.”

Notably, Page, an experienced lawyer, thought the legal case could be made that the Mills and Samuelson laptops should be made available for forensic examination. As she noted, the frustration within the FBI came, in part, from the DOJ’s “unwillingness to explain their reasoning.”

Page noted that this issue regarding the laptops rose to “the head of the OEO, the Office of Enforcement Operations, which is the unit at the Justice Department who would have to approve a warrant on a lawyer—because, of course, these were all lawyer laptops. It rose to that individual, it rose to George Toscas, over the course of this 3 months or so.”

Toscas will also come up in the section below relating to his boss, John Carlin. Equally important, the issue, at least once, rose even higher:

“I think that even the Director [Comey] may have had a conversation with Sally Yates, the DAG [Deputy Attorney General], about it.”

Page was also critical of the State Department’s handling of the affair, noting, “rather than the State Department itself conducting that analysis of whether or not there was—or whether these emails were work-related or not, deferred to Secretary Clinton to do that.”

<https://pbs.twimg.com/media/DwqmwkxUwAASSdh.jpg>

26) Lisa Page testified that she had traveled abroad only once while working for Andrew McCabe in December of 2016 with Peter Strzok & 3 other unnamed individuals.

The theory is that they were there gathering intel on Trump’s people with the help of British intelligence.

Page noted that she only traveled abroad once while she worked for McCabe, in December 2016, on official business in London. Strzok traveled with her, as did three other unnamed individuals. One individual that Page specified as not being part of the trip was Bill Priestap, the FBI’s head of counterintelligence. Page was prohibited by FBI counsel for detailing the purpose of her visit.

Prior to her work for Deputy FBI Director McCabe, Page worked within the DOJ—where Bruce Ohr was her direct supervisor for five to six years. Page also met Nellie Ohr, Bruce Ohr’s wife, at a summer barbeque that Ohr held for the office in 2011.

Highlights: >Called for the sex-integration of prisons and reformatories so that conditions of imprisonment, security and housing could be equal. She explained, "If the grand design of such institutions is to prepare inmates for return to the community as persons equipped to benefit from and contribute to civil society, then perpetuation of single-sex institutions should be rejected." (Page 101) >Called for the sex-integration of Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts because they "perpetuate stereotyped sex roles." (Page 145) >Insisted on sex-integrating "college fraternity and sorority chapters" and replacing them with "college social societies." (Page 169)	>Cast constitutional doubt on the legality of "Mother's Day and Father's Day as separate holidays." (Page 146) >Called for reducing the age of consent for sexual acts to people who are "less than 12 years old." (Page 102) >Asserted that laws against "bigamists, persons cohabiting with more than one woman, and women cohabiting with a bigamist" are unconstitutional. (Page 195) >Objected to laws against prostitution because "prostitution, as a consensual act between adults, is arguably within the zone of privacy protected by recent constitutional decisions." (Page 97) >Ginsburg wrote that the Mann Act (which punishes those who engage in interstate sex traffic of women and girls) is "offensive." Such acts should be considered "within the zone of privacy." (Page 98) >Demanded that we "firmly reject draft or combat exemption for women," stating "women must be subject to the draft if men are." But, she added, "the need for affirmative action and for transition measures is particularly strong in the uniformed services." (Page 218) >An indefatigable censor, Ginsburg listed hundreds of "sexist" words that must be eliminated from all statutes. Among words she found offensive were: man, woman, manmade, mankind, husband, wife, mother, father, sister, brother, son, daughter, serviceman, longshoreman, postmaster, watchman, seamanship, and "to man" (a vessel). (Pages 15-16)	>Wanted he, she, him, her, his, and hers to be dropped down the memory hole. They must be replaced by he/she, her/him, and hers/his, and federal statutes must use the bad grammar of "plural constructions to avoid third person singular pronouns." (Page 52-53) >Condemned the Supreme Court's ruling in Harris v. McRae and claimed that taxpayer-funded abortions should be a constitutional right. http://humanevents.com/2005/08/23/senators-overlooked-radical-record-of-ruth-bader-ginsburg/ Who are the doctors 'currently' treating [RBG]? 22) Red_Castle

It's just a guess, but the Army Corps of Engineers has as their symbol, a red and white castle.

Is Trump planning to build the border wall using Defense Department money and the corps of engineers?

If a woman is selected as the nominee does that eliminate the wrap up smear re: sexual assault?

(Not entirely. They can go after her husband, or other male family member. They can also claim she protected a sexual predator.

They can also claim she slept her way to certain positions.)

What other tactics might be planned to block and/or force name removal

(Claims that she is pro-life and will overturn RvW for religious reasons...in short, attack her religion)
