The current rioting in the U.S is a result of insurgents trying to regain control.

Have police been given stand-down orders?

Would such orders provide a safe-haven for rioters?

7) Law Enforcement officials have reported that a majority of rioters are not local citizens but people from outside the region.

POTUS laid the blame for some of the rioting on organized groups like Antifa.

8) In August of 2019, Jim Banks asked the FBI to add Antifa to its list of extremist ideologies.

10) Last July, Senators Bill Cassidy and Ted Cruz introduced a resolution that would label Antifa a domestic terror organization.

11) Although Antifa claims to be opposed to fascism, their tactics are identical to those used by Mussolini's blackshirts and Hitler's brownshirts.

There's even a resemblance in Antifa's logo.

Insurrection Act

The Insurrection Act of 1807 is a United States federal law that governs the ability of the President of the United States to deploy military troops within the United States to put down lawlessness, insurrection, and rebellion. The general purpose is to limit presidential power, relying on state and local governments for initial response in the event of insurrection. Coupled with the Posse Comitatus Act, presidential powers for federal military law enforcement on U.S. soil and unincorporated territories are limited and delayed.

26) "The President may also deploy troops as a police force during a natural disaster, epidemic, serious public health emergency, terrorist attack, or other condition, when the President determines that the authorities of the state are incapable of maintaining public order."

On September 30, 2006, the Congress modified the Insurrection Act as part of the 2007 Defense Authorization Bill (repealed as of 2008). Section 1076 of the law changed Sec. 333 of the "Insurrection Act," and widened the President's ability to deploy troops within the United States to enforce the laws. Under this act, the President may also deploy troops as a police force during a natural disaster, epidemic, serious public health emergency, terrorist attack, or other condition, when the President determines that the authorities of the state are incapable of maintaining public order. The bill also modified Sec. 334 of the Insurrection Act, giving the President authority to order the dispersal of either insurgents or "those obstructing the enforcement of the laws." The law changed the name of the chapter from "Insurrection" to "Enforcement of the Laws to Restore Public Order."

If you've ever had the opportunity to listen to the succinct communication between carrier operations and the aircraft in flight, it's quite an experience. When a fighter jet is on approach and "in the groove" (i.e., 15-18 seconds to touchdown) to an aircraft carrier the Landing Signal Officer (LSO) onboard will say to the approaching aircraft, "Call the ball."

He is asking for a couple of things, but primarily if the pilot can see the round orange 'meatball' on the Optical Landing System (OLS). If he cannot see the ball for whatever reason, the pilot will transmit, "Clara." This tells the LSO that the pilot is not receiving optical glide slope information, a situation that must be corrected by the pilot or LSO quickly. Otherwise, a wave-off is required, which equates to additional cost incurred in fuel, time, planning and even potential safety concerns.

Most all of the time though, the pilot will see the ball (and of course the related lighting system) and will note the orange ball's relation to the green horizontal datum lights. This will indicate if he is high, low, or on glide-slope.

In response to the LSO's query to "Call the ball," the pilot will answer by stating his side number, aircraft type, 'ball,' and fuel state (and qualification number if in training). It would most likely sound something like this:

“ Dallas two-two-one, Tomcat ball, five-point-seven.” This translates to: Dallas-VF-1's squadron call-sign, 221-the number on the side of the aircraft, Tomcat-F-14, ball-I see the ball, 57-5,700 pounds of fuel left.

<https://2009-2017.state.gov/documents/organization/119629.pdf>

Insurgency can be defined as 'the organized use of subversion and violence to seize, nullify, or challenge political control of a region.'

Insurgents seek to subvert or displace the government and completely or partially control the resources and population of a given territory. They do so through the use of force (including guerrilla warfare, terrorism and coercion/intimidation), propa- ganda, subversion and political mobilization. Insurgents fight government forces only to the extent needed to achieve their political aims: their main effort is not to kill counterinsurgents, but rather to establish a competitive system of control over the population, making it impossible for the government to administer its territory and people. Insurgent activity is therefore designed to weaken government control and legitimacy while increasing insurgent control and influence.

Insurgents require supporters, recruits, safe havens, money, supplies, weapons and intelligence on government actions. A robust insurgency can be waged with the support of just a small percentage of a given population.

NEXT:

Counterinsurgency may be defined as 'comprehensive civilian and military efforts taken to simultaneously defeat and contain insurgency and address its root causes'.

Q

44) Attorney General Barr's statement on Antifa's violence and the DOJ's response.

With the rioting that is occurring in many of our cities around the country, the voices of peaceful and legitimate protest have been hijacked by violent radical elements. Groups of outside radicals and agitators are exploiting the situation to pursue their own separate, violent, and extremist agenda. It is time to stop watching the violence and to confront and stop it. The continued violence and destruction of property endangers the lives and livelihoods of others, and interferes with the rights of peaceful protestors as well as all other citizens. It also undercuts the urgent work that needs to be done -- through constructive engagement between affected communities and law enforcement leaders -- to address legitimate grievances. Preventing reconciliation and driving us apart is the goal of these radical groups, and we cannot let them succeed. It is the responsibility of state and local leaders to ensure that adequate law enforcement resources, including the National Guard where necessary, are deployed on the streets to reestablish law and order. We saw this finally happen in Minneapolis last night, and it worked. Federal law enforcement actions will be directed at apprehending and charging the violent radical agitators who have hijacked peaceful protest and are engaged in violations of federal law. To identify criminal organizers and instigators and to coordinate federal resources with our state and local partners, federal law enforcement is using our existing network of 56 regional FBI Joint Terrorism Task Forces ("JTTF"). The violence instigated and carried out by Antifa and other similar groups in connection with the rioting is domestic terrorism and will be treated accordingly.

>What must be completed to engage MI over other (3) letter agencies

During the 1950s and 60s, federal troops and federalized National Guard forces, accompanied by military intelligence personnel, were deployed to help integrate Southern schools²³ and to help deal with civil disorders in Detroit in 1967 and other cities the following year after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. ²⁴ Throughout this period military intelligence units also continued to collect data on Americans at home who were suspected of involvement in subversive activities.²⁵ In the late 1960s, the Pentagon compiled personal information on more than 100,000 politically active Americans in an effort to quell civil rights and anti-Vietnam War demonstrations and to discredit protestors.²⁶ The Army used 1,500 plainclothes agents to watch demonstrations, infiltrate organizations, and spread disinformation. ²⁷ According to one report, the Army had at least one observer at every demonstration of more than twenty people. ²⁸ The Army's activities were summed up by Senator Sam Ervin: Allegedly for the purpose of predicting and preventing civil disturbances which might develop beyond the control of state and local officials, Army agents were sent throughout the country to keep surveillance over the way the civilian population expressed their sentiments about government policies. In churches, on campuses, in classrooms, in public meetings, they took notes, tape-recorded, and photographed people who dissented in thought, word, or deed. This included clergymen, editors, public officials, and anyone who sympathized with the dissenters.
