The UNDEFINED MAN already is the love and the love is always undefined. However, the belief in the fantasy of chaos existing beyond the surface of MAN'S skin has diminished MAN'S undefined LOVE FOR LIFE which is now being manipulated between the ears (so to speak) by the occultists who use images of defined narratives streaming directly out of the chaos of the occults..... "God", "Jesus", "Archangel Michael", "Galactic Federation Of Enlightened Beings", "The Universe", "The Divine", etc, etc, to regulate when, where and how we direct the power of our love beyond the surface of our skin, for the whole of our lives.

Through accepting chaos (narratives formed out of the fantasies of definitions), as being part of our reality, our belief that we end at the surface of our skin has become a dam regulating who we really are and this is all about holding back the power of the undefined love (life-energy) that we already are as we regulate the supply of love through our lives.

Undefined love is the free will of life-energy that is the power of creation MAN is gifted with as the undefined magnificence of God.

When we open up the dam a little, the love is allowed to start flowing beyond the surface of our skin BUT, currently, under the power of the narratives of the definitions in our heads, the "self-obsession" of CHAOS, we think that the love is coming from outside the surface of the skin; if we start to believe in and accept Jesus and we believe that it is Jesus who has opened up more love in our lives when actually, we are just opening the predetermined dam of our love a little more, as it trickles beyond the surface of our skin.

This is how the occultists are preparing to bring in the New World Order; they are getting us to open up the dams a bit more but only from the manipulation of the horrors of chaos and they are directing this regulated love to the Oneness, consciousness, eco friendly, fake peace and harmony of their ancient, grand plan, thousand year Golden Reign.

This is no different to how they control the user pays economy built on fractional reserve banking and their promissory notes; they create "abundance", which is really inflation, by turning the taps of the money supply on more through the creation of credit that really is debt and, when it suits them, they cut down the supply of credit to cause economic recession and, when required, depression - all debts must be paid off or bankruptcy ensues.

But all of this is only happening between the ears through the narratives of the trauma that they are manipulating, the chaos, and we are told what is happening with the money supply and how things are going to be by the "experts", the lackeys of the occultists, all of whom talk about the chaos of the economy as though it has its own life and is not under the control of the occultists acting as the highest heads of government, rule of law, religion, etc, the chaos, and somehow, MAGICALLY, we are all at the effect of it, the chaos. WOWWWWWWWWWWWWWWWWW

It is all contrived and predetermined, just like the flow of our love in "The System".

The chess board of chaos has its pieces, kings, queens, knights, bishops, rooks and pawns, and in "The System" of chaos we also have the same kings, queens, bishops, knights, etc, taking their places on the chessboard of chaos, the black and white squares of the occults of Freemasonry.

Each piece acts out its predetermined role in the economy, law, government, religion, etc, of chaos, all the while the high level occultists, initiated Freemasons, and the hidden hands behind them, the silhouettes of mystery of the occults of black magic who are also regulated by and are regulating the strings of belief. These hidden hands are the master puppeteers pulling at the strings of belief, the regulations, of their pawns beneath them, pulling the strings of world events for everybody.

The white squares of the chess board are the good heart mixing in with the black of the chaos, regulating MAN from within the chaos and from without the chaos, and all the initiated occultists are trained to make sure that the good heart is always mixed in with the chaos because this is what ensures the manipulation of regulation which is where they get all their power because they have a world of broken willed men and women on their strings of belief who have accepted the manipulation of fantasy over their lives as God (REALITY). They are forever pulled by the unnatural ebb and flow of the tides swaying between chaos and the good heart.

The regulations of this blatant, predetermined manipulation has all the victims believe that chaos exists "out there" beyond the surface of the skin, but the chaos is only appearing as fantasy between the ears. However, the good heart of the undefined MAN is already present to the MAN and its undefined presence is everywhere beyond the surface of the skin and is unfathomable beneath the surface of the skin and beyond the e-go between the ears in present sense.

This is why every child appearing in the womb must be attacked and inculcated in every way imaginable so that the child never experiences the true power of undefined love (life) and can therefore be manipulated through regulations, the definitions forming the fantasies of their perceived realities, as in The Bible, all other Holy Books, Alphabets and all their recorded History (his-story/her-story), Science, Education, Rule Of Law, etc, etc.

This scam can only ever be played out while every child accepts the chaos of pure fantasy as being their reality, that chaos has life, is part of life, is natural, hence all the myths, lores and legends of the Dark Ages, of Darwinism, Evolution, Carbon Dating, Gravity, etc, all of it CHAOS. When a child is manipulated into accepting the regulation of chaos, the good heart of the child is also being regulated.

Everything about "The System" is regulated and predetermined by MAN because a fantasy has no will to do anything real. This is also why the occultists spend immense amounts of time raising lackeys who will perpetually define reality (the chaos) to every child appearing in the womb until their grave. The matrix of a defined reality IS CHAOS and while ever children accept definitions as being their reality, they accept the regulation of chaos over the whole of their lives, good heart and all.

The occultists use the trauma of disturbance, unrest, confusion, war, injustice, etc, intentionally because all of it is CHAOS, just as they intentionally manipulate the economy, furthering our belief that we do not have power and control over what is around us and what we are living amongst, "The System", meaning we are regulating our ability to love and live life and giving all our power away to the occultists who are regulating us.

The reason there is no community immunity in "The System" to keep the children from being attacked by and raised in chaos is because we are all trapped inside our narratives of regulated chaos and we do not know who we really are anymore because we have lost our ability to sense reality, the truth, and we do not know how to say "NO" to the chaos controlling us because we are that chaos and we accept that chaos in our lives through the narratives of the definitions that we perform in our daily lives no matter where we are. The good heart is being controlled, contained within the surface of the skin. This is self-obsession of the e-go of chaos ruling the vessel.

This is why it is so hard for many of us to get together and do something powerful; the self-obsession of chaos keeps everyone attentive to the defined narratives of their intellect controlling them. The chaos is the intellect, the mind, of the e-go where the defined reality forms the chaos of the matrix, the egregore, the God that is chaos in power because everyone has been separated and broken down, individualised and they can only come together through the brainwashing of their race, culture, creed, titles, standings, status, etc, and all the contracts that come with them, the regulations that control them. This is the trauma of chaos ruling supreme over everyone broken down because they all believe that the definitions is who they really are.

We can all be inculcated from so young into the belief that hell exists and the devil is out there and this forms the limits we place on our love (LIFE - LOVE FOR LIFE). And then we can accept Jesus and the love of Jesus into our lives to counter the devil but it has all been manipulated and, while we accept the chaos of these narratives, we are being manipulated. There are no angels, etc, out there bringing us the love, the power is us and we are responsible for everything going on.

There is no one else out there but us and all the ancestors of undefined MAN that are the celestial bodies holding the undefined living dream of life, the eternal soul of their light (life), and everything else is pure fantasy and this chaos is all happening only between the ears. The ancestors do not interfere with us because we have free will and the occultists can use that free will to destroy all of MAN if we let them, using our free will.

The small boy can run around in the Superman costume, which can then be taken off and put beside the bed, put in the washing machine, left with other Superman costumes at the neighbour's house, worn again and again BUT Superman is still a fantasy no matter how much time and energy the boy spends playing Superman.

The Superman costume is money, the economy, our love, etc. The boy has been regulated because he has accepted the chaos of fantasy, just as a Christian can be regulated by the belief in the love of Jesus. The joy that the boy feels while playing in the Superman costume is regulated because the boy has accepted the narratives that go with the Superman costume, but those narratives can also include unhappiness, trauma and thinking ONLY for "self" that go with the Superman costume.

Or we believe that we need love, a partner, someone to love us because we doubt that we are the undefined love we feel we lack so we look for romantic relationships amongst the chaos, where the doubt about who we really are is being played out, to fill the void, but the void of chaos never goes away because the love that we are lacking is the undefined love that we really are, if we remember it and stop doubting it. But this means you have to hop off the black and white chess board and stop playing chess with everyone else lost to the chaos.

We have accepted the regulation of our love and we are trapped in the narrative of a romance where we are wearing the Superman costume of needing a man or a woman to fulfill us. When we realise that who we really are does not end at the surface of the skin, our love is never-ending and unregulated and we don't need angels or anybody else to bring us the love that we already are. The undefined love can never be stolen from us but the Occultists/Freemasons and their chaos games of pure fantasy are used to trick and deceive us into giving it up.

The occultists have also been regulated by the extensive narratives that form the e-go that regulates those narratives of chaos so they use the chaos to call forth their drones from the chaos and send them in as the army of thugs or the bailiffs, or the cause of famine and scarcity, etc.

The occultists have fallen for the fantasy of becoming after-life Gods in other worlds and galaxies as rewards for doing the duty of their dirty work in this life as those Gods of power and control regulating and enFORCING regulations, but accepting the chaos of these narratives is what leads them to spawning the horrors of the chaos of "The System" where Magistrates, Bailiffs and Real Estate agent drones can arrange for a family to be thrown onto the streets.

Chaos is pure fantasy that is made up of all the narratives of the definitions you have been brainwashed into since you were in the womb. And you bring your good heart into the chaos and you can now be regulated. The clock is regulation - just how much does the fantasy of the clock regulate your life?

The narrative of the clock makes you do what you do according to the clock and you have a plethora of narratives that are associated with the clock and yet, at all times, it is YOU acting out the narratives. The clock is the Superman costume that cannot play out any narratives associated with the clock because neither the clock nor time exists.

And with the clock comes numerology, astrology, astronomy, science, rules, regulations, rituals, procedures, conditions and contracts etc, but none of it can do anything - it is all US giving power to the narratives over us. The angels bringing us love are pure fantasy because we dreamt them while under deep psychotic "states", we just don't see/sense the hidden hand behind the curtain pulling the strings of our belief via the voices of the occultists inside our heads regulating EVERYTHING because we accept their chaos, their fake dreamworld of hell.

When we give up who we really are and accept that we end at the surface of our skin, we are now open to being regulated and this is the sign of a broken will because we are accepting the domination of the occultists chaos and we can be pulled this way and that, between "good" and "evil" and all the duality that plays out, but it is all predetermined.

Every child appearing in the womb will have chaos manipulating them into the regulations of gender, sexuality, etc, and this manipulation expands chaos everywhere as they also use the narratives that defined them into seducing others into falling into the same narratives they promote as their part in upholding chaos all around, "The System".

It's obvious that occultists do not want anyone to remember who they really are as this is how they maintain their power and control as Gods overseeing and regulating HELL, "The System", by being the voices in everybody's head. When we get caught up in gender and sexuality, etc, we are worshipping the manipulation through the regulation of chaos over everybody. This is why China has facial recognition now sweeping all across the country, as well as 60 million cameras to keep everyone under surveillance and many Swedish men and women are rushing to get a chip implanted between the thumb and the forefinger so that they can use it to scan instead of a card. China is also banning Christianity and closing all the churches because they do not want the good heart to expand and destroy the cancer of the regulation of chaos.

The occultists need to maintain the cancer of the regulation of chaos but doing so destroys all of reality including them. There is no equilibrium with chaos. It is either total annihilation of reality or no chaos = paradise. It is a fantasy to believe that a fatal disease can be maintained in a body for a whole lifetime of around 80 years and be passed through the generations forever so that those spreading the disease can maintain power and control over the undefined good heart through their worship of their God of chaos. All that can happen is the degradation of reality before their eyes, day by day, until it is too late because there is no resistance to stop the narratives of annihilation they dream for.

We have to stop passing the buck and accepting chaos in our lives, waiting for the angels to come into our lives, or for the "one day" freedom because we have accepted the narratives of the occultists telling us that we must not be in the front line of our lives because we must be busy doing whatever we do as dictated by the narratives in our heads so that we are not being the community immunity standing up against the harm being done to all of us by the agendas of the occultists.

Instead we allow them into our lives, trying to "be the voice for change", even as we sit back and allow them to keep up the rape, pillage and plunder of our brothers and sisters.

The only thing that we can do to stop this is to get past the bluff of this manipulation and stand up to it. If 500 people turned up here, where we are being threatened with being thrown onto the streets, to say no more to this bluff, no more to this manipulation of chaos, the impact would be huge. We don't live in the fantasy where your law plays out and where you use your brainwashed drones to act out your regulations so you can have the fake glory of your fantasy of power, the chaos.

If 1000 people turned up to as community immunity to stand up to another regulation of chaos being enacted, the soullessness, somewhere else, the impact would be huge. This is what we have to start doing. Put our lives on the line and say "no". The occultists have no power other than what we give them. When enough of us refuse to give them that power any more, they will be finished and we can start the regeneration of the food forests.

We refuse to accept their chaos and everything of chaos collapses, just like the child taking off the Superman costume and throwing it on the floor, and we take the power back and each of us starts being fully responsible for how we live.

None of us currently know what it is to live with the true power of the undefined good heart, to live a day to day life without chaos, which is why we have so much doubt about how we will live and how we will feed our families, etc, which is why we have so much fear of removing "The System", quickly or not. What we don't realise is that, when we are free of the chaos of self-obsession, we are capable of the extraordinary occurring ALWAYS.

There is no gentle, one day, "if". It is all or nothing. Do you want the fatal disease to keep spreading or do you want to get the fatal disease out of your body so that you can move on with your life, completely free from chaos?

Do you want to get rid of the fatal cancer "one day", when you are "ready", or do you want it out NOW?

Why do we want to wait another five years playing Russian roulette with the pending arrival of total annihilation?

Can you comprehend having no fatal disease and being free without the manipulation of the regulation in your head and you are no longer self-obsessed because you no longer end at the surface of your skin and you have the full power of undefined creation (life) because you are fully responsible for everything you think, feel and do?

No more superman costumes, no more fantasy. All of our sickness and fatal disease comes from the chaos of regulation being the dominant power over the good heart of the vessel = heart attacks, etc, fatal or near fatal or not. And even though we break through the facade of chaos with a brave smile on our faces, we are still suffering from the stress and pressure of the regulation of pure manipulation dominating our everyday real lives, the fantasy of chaos reigning supreme, always, with no way out from this prison of regulation between the ears.

Social media is full of men and women putting on (pushing through from the chaos) the brave face of being intelligent, informed and concerned over their suffering and the suffering and hardships of others but nothing really changes - the regulations continue despite any changes occurring to make us think things are improving.

Why are we supporting the chaos of fantasy? When we give up the chaos, we stop the wars of Palestine and everywhere else. The occultists want a third world war but our actions can STOP the war because, if enough of us refuse to participate in the chaos, the chaos stops and most of MAN across earth are no longer treated like scum.

We don't need the angels - though presently forgotten, we have always been the undefined love that will completely consume chaos quickly if we dream it so and be it, live it, walk-the-talk (so to speak). When we are undefined, there is no longer any "person" (e-go) existing in chaos to be manipulated and regulated.

It's impossible to get in touch with who you really are (spiritual side) through alphabets because the letters of the alphabets do not exist and all the words (meanings) derived from alphabets do not exist either and everything to do with alphabets are definitions forming the fantasies of your perceived realities.

You can only imagine a definition which has nothing to do with what you are directly experiencing (sensing) of reality, in the moment, through the senses. To imagine a definition as being reality is pure fantasy. You can ONLY be/experience who you really are in present sense through the senses (touch, taste, feel, smell, hear, see) which has nothing to do with alphabets and all the definitions derived from them.

We can all be standing together looking at a sensory life form of reality but each of us is having a unique, original experience, and no matter how hard we try to define (explain, instruct, educate, suggest, inculcate, indoctrinate, brainwash) the sensory experience we are having with reality, in present sense, to another, no one else can experience/SENSE what we are experiencing/SENSING because each of us is having a unique, original experience (smell, visual, etc) and it stays that way forevermore.

All we can do is imagine what another is sensing and, if we believe the definition derived from another that we imagine is reality, then we are completely lost in deep states of fantasy out of which comes psychosis.

All of nature (the whole of reality/life/creation) communicates ONLY through the senses and we (MAN) are already communicating through the senses but everyone educated has been completely distracted by the non-sense (imagining definitions being reality - the communication of reality, so they believe) and are not really communicating at all because the blimp of reality is not being sensed on their radars and instead they are imagining, projecting and illuminating the blimp of definition on their radars as their misguided communication of reality. They are all seriously lost, confused and psychotic.

"Undefined love is the free will of life-energy that is the power of creation MAN is gifted with as the undefined magnificence of God."

This power has been gifted to us so that we can expand the magnificence of the dream of life with unique, original dreams inspired by direct, sensory experience with life forms of the dream of MAN'S life. But we have also been gifted with free will so we can create dreams that are not magnificent and dreams that are not ours. We can create magnificent dreams of the good heart that are dreams of compassion, empathy, sensitivity, generosity, nurturing, sincerity, purity of intention, protection, kindness, honesty, etc, that do no harm to the living dream of life where the pulse of the good heart resonates or we can create mediocre dreams of greed, selfishness, anger, jealousy, unhappiness, unfairness, etc.

Thoughts are dreams and dreams are thoughts and what we think and dream is what we create but we have forgotten this and we blame others and "circumstances" for the drudgery of our mediocre lives. When we are brought up in magnificent, undefined nature, the lives that we dream are inspired by the virtues of the good heart, as in compassion, empathy, sensitivity, kindness, generosity, nurturing, honesty, sincerity, purity of intention, protection, etc, to do no harm to the living dream of life where the pulse of the good heart resonates.

When children are brought up by nature and "The System" doesn't exist around the child, there are no voices speaking the narratives of definitions in the child's head so the good heart of life is in everything the child experiences and the child is in the image of the good heart, the undefined magnificence of the dream of life. No one is telling the child that the child is a girl or a boy, American or Italian, a Christian or a Jew, good or bad, dark haired or fair haired, black, white or yellow, rich or poor, tall or short, fat or thin.

Who the child is, is all around the child as the tree, the bird, the plants, the mountains, the valleys, the eagles and the bison and the child has no confusion about who the child is so the child never experiences doubt and uncertainty, fear, emptiness or loneliness because there is nowhere in the undefined magnificence of the dream of life that the life of the child is not. The life of the child is the life of the living creator of the whole of the magnificent dream of MAN'S (living creator's) life so the life of the child is imbued with the intention of the living creator and the child will never dream to do harm to the living creator's dream that is the child.

In nature, the child never experiences power and control trips. No one is coveting the child and invading the thoughts of the child to get the child to think and behave in a prescribed, predetermined way and no one has to use and abuse the child because there is no one needing the child to be something for them. Everyone living in the undefined dream of life has everything they need and so much more so there is no need for ownership, including the ownership of belief, faith and associated opinion. We are living and being the pulse of the good heart in present sense always.

No MAN needs another MAN to be that magnificence, just as no leaf needs another leaf to be that magnificence because the virtues of the good heart were already there when we appeared in the womb and are still there when we depart the vessel (body).

This is what we all dream for but we don't know how to get back there. Raised in "The System" of mediocrity, we are rudderless ships drifting on the seas of the chaos of definitions that we believe are reality because we have lost connection with everything of reality that we already are. We are no longer conscious of what we are dreaming and the consequences of those dreams as we have practised stepping into the narratives of defined dreams of mediocrity from childhood to adulthood and this is what we live.

We dream school, university, career, family, retirement and death and think that we are successful if we have managed to "own" a home and have a few luxuries and holidays along the way. This is all that we see and we think that this is the best that we can be. We don't realise that everything that is happening in our system lives is what we are creating under the influences of the voices of others inside our heads and none of it has anything to do with the big picture of the dream of life that we are supposed to be holding, creating and expanding, something a child naturally does when they are brought up by nature. None of these dreams are our dreams but we think that they are because, in "The System", there is such a wide range of dreams to choose from.

With the voices in our heads tossing us this way and that from so very young, pulling us from dream to dream to dream to dream, we lose the ability to hold the magnificence of the dream of life, even though we still instinctively yearn for all the virtues of the good heart, because the voices in our heads have caused us to practise shattering big dreams of magnificence and all we can do is hold onto the little dreams of our rudderless ships that are the e-go of chaos that we think is who we are.

When we can only hold onto small dreams, we don't see the consequences of what we are dreaming and the harm that our dreaming is causing to the whole of the dream of life, including our brothers and sisters. When our dreams include being able to buy cheap clothes, we are not thinking about the miserable lives of the men, women and children in the sweatshops making the cheap clothes. When our dreams include having a car to drive, we are not thinking of the mountains that are being gouged open to mine the metal to build the car. When we dream to "own" a piece of land, we are not thinking of all the men and women who can never "own" a piece of land because we do. In "The System", there is never enough to go round so for us to have what we have, others must go without. This is the mediocrity of dreams that cause harm because they are not based on the good heart, even though we bring the good heart into them.

We end up with frustration and disappointment because we are not able to hold onto the magnificence that we instinctively feel and, distracted by the trinkets of "The System", we are left stranded, tossing and turning on the stormy seas of chaos, confused and unable to work out what is going on because we have come into a dream of shattered magnificence and we are unable to pick up all the shattered pieces to make whole the big picture of the dream of life. We are left empty and disillusioned and so our doubt and uncertainty increases and we are pulled further and further into the conversations of the narratives of chaos that form the abyss of our making that we fall into, swimming around in the doubt, uncertainty, complacency, denial and apathy wondering why we can never climb out.

What if I don't meet anyone? How can I afford a house? Why do people always bully me? Why can't I lose weight? Why did she look at me that way? No one at work likes me. Everything goes wrong for me. I'm not clever enough. If I don't work hard, I won't be able to retire. Why aren't I happy?

So we default to "The System" because we need someone to tell us what to do and how to think and feel.

It is in this abyss of the darkness of chaos that all the haves and have nots exist, all the titles, standings and status, all the education and careers, all the economics, politics and law, all the religions, philosophies and movements, all the "alternatives" and revolutions, all the protests, petitioning and rallies, all the wars, famine, poverty, sickness, disease, destructive e-motions, cruelty, brutality and violence. Magnificence is not there because it has been given up as we cling to the mediocrity that we need from each other and the narratives that tell us how to be because we no longer have the discipline to hold the magnificence of the big picture of the dream of life.

Our will has been broken, shattered into thousands of pieces of petty mediocrity so we are easily distracted by music, TV, books, consumerism, materialism, sport, fashion, hobbies, money, our jobs, our families, etc, all of which is the shattering of the big picture but we are unconscious of this because we believe that we have freedom, truth and consciousness when all we have are the narratives of defined freedom, truth and consciousness that come from the voices in our head. We are still not sensing the whole, still scrabbling around trying to fit the pieces of the puzzle into a whole.

It is only in the abyss of chaos that people get power and control over others that they use to replace the emptiness of having no magnificence but, because we have placed the free will of our good heart in the definitions of mediocrity and we believe that this fantasy dreamworld is reality and that this is where we will find who we really are, in all the fake consciousness, fake lives, fake truths, fake spirituality, fake science, fake history, etc, we do not realise that all the narratives we are using to form our fake lives have been fed to us by those who want the power and control. The more we seek freedom, the more they feed us with narrative of fake freedom. The more we seek consciousness, the more they feed us with narratives of fake consciousness but we can't see that it is fake because we have never experienced true freedom and consciousness.

Even "good" dreams, such as Permaculture and alternative living, are not the magnificent big picture because we are still trapped in narratives of permaculture and alternative living that are formed from definitions so Permaculture and alternative living never bring us freedom. We can spread permaculture food forests across the whole of earth and still be trapped in narratives that are the control of other men and women over us because they are the alphabet voices in your head telling you how you should think, feel and act and how to understand everything around you, which places you under-their-standing.

They are dangling you from the fishing rod of the narratives of fantasy, illusion and delusion that they have supplied you with and you believe that these narratives are your dreams and that you are "different" from others around you because your combination of narratives is different from their combination of narratives and because there are so many narratives within narratives making up everything of "The System". But, no matter how varied the narratives may be, they are still the thoughts and dreams of other men and women inside your head and they have NOTHING to do with who you really are as the magnificent dream of MAN'S life.

We cannot be in "The System" if we do not have narratives spinning in our heads so there is nowhere that magnificent MAN, the embodiment of the living creator, can exist in "The System". To stay in the abyss of narratives, we have to create a fake persona out of the narratives that we are projecting and illuminating and we have become so familiarised with this illumination that is our fake persona that we believe the fake persona is who we really are and we act out the lives of the fake persona like a child playing Superman, wearing the costume of Superman until it becomes normal and the child really believes that the child is Superman and that all the narratives that make up the story of Superman are the narrative of the life of the child. We grow up with all those around us acting out the narratives of their fake personas and everyone we meet has a fake persona and, all together, we are drifting further and further from reality towards the apocalypse.

We have become the unconscious persona that we have created from the definitions and this is why we find it so hard to unplug from "The System"; who we believe we are exists ONLY in "The System" so unplugging from the fake persona feels like death but it is only the death of the e-go that we are experiencing and, as the e-go dies, we let go of our connection with the egregore of "The System" that our e-go is part of. We are the Star Trek Borg trying to unplug from the Borg collective but we have no idea who we are when we are not being a Borg in the collective, which is why we are so attached to Borg life, even though we are experiencing the hard slog of being in the collective and we have thousands of complaints about unfairness, injustice, struggle, discrimination, etc, of life in the collective which is all mediocrity maintaining a huge distance from magnificence.

All the chaos in "The System" comes from us clutching at the straws of mediocrity because none of the definitions belong to the magnificence of the undefined good heart. We are lost in the narratives that were defined to us and, in accepting the narratives of mediocrity, we are drawn into hell because this is what we are calling out for and this is how we form the Borg collective, the sameness models of the cults of mediocrity that form the whole of "The System" of chaos. We are all calling out the definitions of sameness so we all end up in the same mediocrity where we can never be anything other than mediocre because there is no magnificence in the narratives of sameness.

We fight for the narratives because we have practised shattering wholeness. We are lost on the swings and roundabouts of feeling the good heart and then being pulled back into the darkness of the narratives that are the e-go that we wear as our fake persona where we perceive fantasy as being our reality. As much as we yearn for the magnificence of the good heart, we keep calling out the mediocrity and this is what we experience, over and over and over. We have introduced so much sabotage into our dreams of the good heart that they are forever out of reach because we keep wearing the Superman costume of chaos that has us fit into the sameness model of the definitions of our Borg collective, our chosen cult. But, as the Borg collective is all fantasy, there is no room for the living so we have to destroy the living all around us to maintain the illusion of the collective and anyone who doesn't want to be part of the collective and fit into its sameness models is breaking the rules of the collective and is met with consequences designed to bring them back onto the path of the collective.

All the sameness models come from the occultists and we take them on as our system lives, destroying the paradise of the good heart because we do not have the discipline to sustain paradise which is why there is so much divorce, violence, adultery, sickness, homelessness, unhappiness, discontent, depression, murder, war, displacement, hatred, jealousy, envy, greed and selfishness. If we were able to hold the dream of paradise, we wouldn't allow any of this harm and suffering into it. Instead, broken willed, we clutch at straws of fantasy not realising that the fantasy is the suffering because the fantasy never satiates our insatiable longings for the paradise of the good heart. The magnificence of pure love and freedom is out of reach because we have practised giving up the discipline of refusing the lie that shatters the big picture of magnificence.

All the letters of the alphabet languages are encoded with the e-motions of the ritual sacrifices performed by the occultists on their victims and, when we use the words to identify and become attached to our system personas, we are calling up the e-motions of this trauma, the despair, hopelessness, helplessness and fear and, because we see these e-motions being practised by those around us from so young, we practise them too and play them out in our relationships with friends, family and work colleagues. We become the victims of imagined sleights, embroiled in dramas with others playing out their e-motions, we fall in and out of relationships where we play e-emotional victim and/or aloof icicle and the whole of "The System" is run on the current of our e-motions which is why there is no stability or security.

To those who think they have security and stability and that they are happy, just think of losing your home, of being thrown on the streets, of having your children taken away, of losing your job, of sickness and death in your family (if it isn't already there) and you will see just how quickly the fear rises up and, if you are honest, just how much you have to toil for many, many years just to keep a roof over your family's head and food on the table. There is no security in "The System" because everything you have toiled for can be taken away. If you don't think so, do some research and find out just how many are losing their homes daily, how many are having their children removed, how many can't find a job. "The System" is a constant back and forth of give and take; give here, take there, give there, take here as we all swing from the highs to the lows and back, again and again and again. There is no peace and calm and those who think they have peace and calm because they are among the haves who are able to "own" a home and pay their bills are only able to do so off the backs of the have nots.

All these e-motions fuel the blimps on our radars that are the narratives we place on everyone and everything around us which means that we do not sense the intentions of those we come across because we have already predetermined how our relationship with them is going to be based on our past experiences that we project into the future so we are never present to the present moment which is why we cannot sense what is going on. All we know are the blimps on our radar that are the self-obsession of the voices in our heads forming a wall between us and everything of life as we use and abuse life to get cars and petrol for our cars and computers and iphones and houses, all of us together accelerating the rolling stone of the destruction of the true consciousness of MAN.

This is very different from sensing the good heart and the intentions of the man or woman before us and not placing the judgment of our past experiences over them like a blanket.

When the living creator created the dream of life, the intention of the good heart was encoded in everything the living creator created and every MAN was created undefined in the undefined dream of life uses the virtues of the good heart to create uniqueness and originality. The living creator didn't have another god telling the creator how to think and feel about its creation and there were no definitions because there was no system on the dream of life. There were no fake personas and no blimps on radars blinding us to sense.

Our uniqueness and originality comes from how we each use our free will of the good heart to apply the virtues of the good heart. This is what forms the natural, undefined, uniqueness and originality of MAN'S undefined soul. We are of the undefined wholeness of magnificence but we are all unique and original. Every seed is gifted with the free will of the good heart and every unique, original instant forms unique, original life, which is why no leaf is ever the same as another, no grain of sand, no drop of water. There is no sameness in magnificence and no moment is ever repeated.

Every life form has the intention of the good heart embodied and each life form and every instant of the life of each life form is accessing the good heart so every tree is unique and original, every branch is unique and original and every leaf is unique and original and this expands out through the whole of creation and every life form is holding the magnificence of the dream of life.

Those at the top of "The System" and their public figures, the judges, magistrates, priests, politicians and big business moguls are trained to be very calm giving the impression that they are holding the big picture of magnificence when all they are really doing is upholding the illusion of the big picture of the narratives of a fake reality full of fake lives with everyone playing the same game.

Because we can't hold a big picture of undefined magnificence that is peace, calm and order, we accept the defined order handed down to us, even though this order is power and control over us and takes away our freedom. But we don't complain because we no longer know what freedom is so we accept the rules, regulations, rituals and obligations of our masters because we want the crumbs off crumbs off their tables AND we want them to protect what they have allowed us to think we own. We have given up the full responsibility to be the magnificence. We constantly default to those who uphold the law, politics, religions, super natural beings, science, the mysteries of the occults, education, etc, because this is where the power of order from the chaos is held by the occultists trained in this deception. As all we see around us is chaos, we fear letting go of the fake order they provide, an order where suffering, sickness, disease, poverty and environmental disaster everywhere is allowed to flourish.

We default to them because we have given up magnificence and we accept the bluff of their mediocrity. We go to the judge to get order, to the priest to get truth, to the politicians to get rules, to the hospitals to get life, to big business to provide necessities but it is all within the chaos of "The System". If we were living the magnificence of the living dream of life, we wouldn't need any of them because we already are the judge, the priest, the politician and the provider because we already have everything we need.

Under "The System", we have become sick and unhappy so those of "The System" provide us with band aids for our problems. Because their solutions for us are only band aids, the problems are only "managed", not resolved so then we need "The System" to keep giving us the band aids. This is the placebo effect of the Stockholm Syndrome that keeps us e-motionally tied to "The System". We chafe against the restrictions but we need their money, we need their shops, we need their manufacturing, we need their ownership and we need their narratives, so we put up with the restrictions and beg them not to take away their benefits and services. This is the mediocrity of our broken wills in practise.

If all you have practised is making up dreams of mediocrity from shattered bits and pieces of different narratives, you will accept that power of the big picture of "The System" over you because you don't hold the dream of "The System" in its entirety so you do not see the consequence of living this way, which is the annihilation of the dream of life, including us. When the biggest picture you can see is in the courts, the churches, synagogues, temples and mosques, the schools and universities, the auditoriums and arenas, the shopping centres and supermarkets, Federal, State and local government, you will go to them to get the pieces of the puzzle of your system life. This is the picture you have been brainwashed into holding and you and you don't have the discipline to withstand the pull of its power over you. You are subjugating your life under another MAN and you have been trained to comply to, acquiesce to and support this subjugation, even though it means death all of us.

Just following the journey of money and commerce through our system lives has us trapped for the whole of our system lives. Money keeps us on the journey of all these shattered pieces. We go from the shop to the petrol station to our jobs to home, to the movies, to the doctors, on holiday, back to the job, the shops, the petrol stations, the movies, etc, because this is who we believe we are because we don't know who we are any more. We believe that we have to work hard to keep the pieces of the shattered reality together because, if we don't, we are faced with the chaos of homelessness, poverty, starvation, the fear of failure, the shame. The electricity bill, the rent, the mortgage, the car lease, the bank accounts, the Tax File number, the investment property, the shares portfolio and all the titles and deeds, all form the illusion of the big picture of your system life but none of it cares for your brothers and sisters and the community around you.

As we sail from definition to definition, from narrative to narrative, always on the seas of fantasy, we are giving our allegiance to fantasy and to those who uphold and benefit from this dream.

Once we have lost the discipline of holding the big picture, we default to holding the big picture with the law, with the finance, with the religions and we are giving our power away to these people to rule us because we don't know who we are anymore. The definitions form the universe of our fake reality, the narratives.

If you can slow down and contemplate, you will notice how all the narratives tie you to the big picture of your fake life as you sail to the port of the supermarket and then set sail again to the bank, and then to the cinema and you are always sailing on the seas of fantasy, giving your allegiance to those that uphold this dream of fantasy and becoming skilled in the disciplines of chaos through the instruction, suggestion, explanation and education of the voices that are always spinning around between our ears (so to speak). Without those voices we can never be part of system life and, if we try to reject them, we are written off as psychologically unwell and given drugs to "set us right".

We love the mediocrity more than the magnificence.
