How to Make TD Auto Finance Payment Online

The most popular TD Bank Auto Finance payment option is of course paying online. This is popular with the more tech savvy customer or younger customer that enjoys using their computer, mobile devices, or mobile app for payments. Customers that are older or more skeptical of using the internet to make payments generally pay by phone or in person.

With online payments there's a lot of flexibility in regards to making payments. Customers have more payment options including one-time payments or setting up recurring payments. Automatic payments can be debited from your checking account each month. Those payments can be scheduled on the same date month by month.

TD Bank also allows customers to use 3rd party sources for online payments. You don't necessarily need an online account via TD Bank to make these payments. BillMatrix is one 3rd party source that is setup for TD Bank customers to use to send their monthly payment. They of course charge customers a fee for payment processing.

How to Register for a TD Auto Finance Online Account

If you are interested in making online payments you will need to first register for an online account which requires you creating an online TD Finance profile. Before getting started with creating your online account it is required that you need the following information:

- Email address
- Social security number or employee identification number
- Vehicle identification number
- Confirm your registration within 48 hours

Once you have this information handy and you understand you can begin the registration process, here is a brief way to get started:

- visit tdautofinance.com
- click the Register Now link
- Enter your vehicle vin
- Enter your social security number
- Answer verification questions

It is a 3 step registration process that you will need to complete before completing and being given access to your own online account. Once your account is finished and you've created your online credentials, you can begin logging in.

Automatic and Monthly Recurring Payments

Once you've set up your online account there is an option for your payments to be automatically drafted from your bank account bi-weekly or monthly. You can choose the day each month you want the payment to occur. You have a few options on the type of payments available:

- Pay the monthly payment
- Pay the principal only
- Pay a combination of the two

All payments are processed on the day you decide. So this is something that you can take advantage of once your account is set up.
